The Colonnade at Revolution Mill

900 Revolution Mill Dr | Greensboro

Please join us to celebrate historic preservation in Greensboro and learn about key issues in our community in 2019. This dinner meeting serves as Preservation Greensboro's annual General Membership Meeting that will include the a Year In Review and presentation of Preservation Awards.

Our keynote speaker for the evening is G. Edwin ("Eddie") Belk, founder of Belk Architecture. Architects and preservationists recognize Belk for his revolutionary approach in reviving treasured industrial buildings into community economic engines. The Rowan County native has converted some of North Carolina's most iconic tobacco warehouses and textile mills by preserving their hand-made bricks and heart-pine floors. Local projects include the Revolution Mill complex and the Mock Judson Voehringer Mill.

Tickets are now available on our website.

Greensboro Can Learn From Detroit

The Gate City and the Motor City enjoy some similarities in terms of history and architecture. Today, the Gate City might benefit from a few lessons to learn from Detroit as the city reinvents itself by leveraging its Twentieth-Century industrial heritage.

Lindley-Coble Farmhouse for Relocation

The Lindley family built this frame farmhouse about 1905, but since 1912 it has been in the Coble family. The once simple house was adorned with a two-story verandah with wrought-iron details in the twentieth-century. A handsome barn is also located on the property, built in the early 1940s by German prisoners of war.

The house and barn are available for relocation to another site. Relocation will be a challenge, but also rewarding. If interested, please contact us.

Throw a Party for Preservation!

Love-A-Landmark

parties are gatherings of neighborhood preservationists, hosted by one or more neighborhood residents, who come to meet other preservationists and to learn more about Greensboro's active preservation community. Guests contribute a membership level donation in honor of their host's hospitality to Preservation Greensboro. Proceeds will support Preservation Greensboro's advocacy work.

Help build your neighborhood's preservation network by hosting a Love A Landmark party in 2019! Enjoy light refreshments, meet some new folks, and get the inside track on preservation in the city.

Architectural Salvage of Greensboro

Two Vintage Markets in 2019!

Architectural Salvage is planning two Vintage Markets for 2019! Save-the-Date for Saturday, April 13 and Saturday September 14. We welcome new vendors that feature vintage materials or crafts, so contact our Preservation Greensboro office for more information.

ASG Wish List

Do you have spare tools that need a home? Do you know someone who is downsizing who would like to donate used tools? Architectural Salvage is looking for a few items that would help us complete our work!

We especially need hammers, screw drivers, wrenches (including pipe wrenches), hack saw blades and any DeWalt batteries.

Donations are eligible for a tax deduction, for which we will gladly supply the form.

And we thought we'd throw this out there; if you have a three-quarter ton truck to donate, by golly we'll take it! It will carry tons of old glass door knobs, paneled doors, windows and floorboards. We currently use a van with a slippery transmission and volunteers use their own vehicles for transport. We're an all-volunteer nonprofit group with little extra cash for a truck, so please let us know if you'd like to contribute!

Friendly Furniture of Guilford County

6:30pm Monday, March 25

Blandwood Carriage House

Join us for a special lecture by Robert Leath, Chief Curator & Vice President, Old Salem Museums & Gardens on the distinctive furniture of early Quaker settlers in Guilford County. Leath will review an historical narrative Quaker Furnituremakers of Guilford County that traces a complex network of cabinetmakers responsible for the region's earliest furniture identity.

This free event is co-hosted by The Greensboro History Museum, The Guilford College Quaker Archives, and Preservation Greensboro - Blandwood Mansion.

Tour Historic Homes & Gardens

Lindley Park, May 18-19

Preservation Greensboro's Ninth Annual Tour of Historic Homes & Gardens will feature vintage homes in the Lindley Park neighborhood during National Historic Preservation Month of May.

Vintage homes in the Lindley Park neighborhood will open their doors to ticket holders on the weekend of May 18-19, 2019. The tour will highlight early twentieth century architecture and home design.

"Lindley Park stands among Greensboro's classic park-centered neighborhoods," says Benjamin Briggs, executive director of Preservation Greensboro, "its winding streets, sidewalks, parks, and shade trees are the legacy of landscape architect Earle Sumner Draper. Every major North Carolina has a Draper neighborhood of esteem, and Lindley Park is ours!"
